ABSTRACT
This paper seeks to examine the effects of leadership styles and work discipline on employee outcomes at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise using qualitative research methodologies. The research investigates the impact of transformational and transactional leadership styles on employee motivation and performance via the use of semi-structured interviews and focus groups with workers and managers. The key results emphasize the crucial role of leadership in creating a supportive work environment and improving employee engagement. In addition, the research explores the significance of work discipline in upholding corporate norms and fostering responsibility among workers. Effective leadership and strong work discipline are essential for attaining corporate objectives and maintaining a competitive edge. The acquired insights assist to improving management practices and cultivating a constructive organizational culture at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise.
INTRODUCTION

Organizations must continuously adapt in order to stay competitive in today's dynamic business environment. An essential factor in this flexibility is the employees' performance, which directly impacts the success of the firm (Ahbabi, 2019). Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, a significant regional corporation, acknowledges the importance of maximizing staff performance in order to accomplish its strategic objectives. In pursuit of this endeavor, the organization aims to comprehend the fundamental elements that influence performance results (Borst, 2020). The two crucial factors that have been identified are leadership and work discipline, which collectively serve as the foundation of a highly efficient and productive workforce (Hidayati et al., 2019).

One might say that leadership is a multidimensional notion that incorporates a variety of styles and techniques, each of which has its own distinct influence on the behavior and performance of employees. It is generally agreed upon that transformational leadership, which places an emphasis on motivating and intellectually engaging people, is an effective and efficient method for creating high levels of engagement and motivation among workers (Ahmad, 2021; Akdere, 2020; Al-Swidi, 2021). Transactional leadership, on the other hand, is defined by clear structures and reward-based processes, and it guarantees that workers are aligned with the objectives of the firm. At Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, conducting research into the ways in which various leadership styles impact employee performance can yield useful insights that can be used to improve management practices and, as a result, the overall efficacy of the company (Šebestová, 2022).

Another important factor that determines employee performance is work discipline, which may be described as the observance of the rules, regulations, and standards that are established by the firm. In order to contribute to the accomplishment of corporate goals, individuals who are disciplined are more likely to demonstrate work habits that are consistent and responsible (Buil, 2019; Cooke, 2019). Because of the need of maintaining high levels of work discipline at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, the company's operational efficiency is a priority. The firm has put in place a number of different rules and processes to guarantee that its personnel carry themselves in accordance with the required standards of performance and behavior (Zia, 2020). When the organization has a better understanding of the link between work discipline and employee outcomes, it will be better able to identify areas in which improvements are needed and implement measures to encourage favorable behaviors (Aswan et al., 2023).

Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise is confronted with difficulties in maximizing staff performance, despite the fact that it is well acknowledged that leadership and work discipline are particularly important. There are a number of key challenges that need to be overcome, including inconsistencies in leadership techniques, fluctuating levels of discipline among employees, and the dynamic character of the workforce. Because of these issues, it is necessary to conduct an in-depth investigation of the ways in which leadership and work discipline impact employee performance.
discipline interact to impact the performance of employees. By addressing these difficulties, Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise is able to build focused interventions that will strengthen the efficacy of leadership and enforce work discipline, ultimately leading to improvements in employee performance and the success of the business.

There have been previous studies that have revealed the enormous influence that leadership and work discipline have on the performance of employees (Reb, 2019). On the other hand, there is a requirement for further research that is relevant to the situation and takes into account the distinctive qualities and difficulties that are encountered by organizations such as Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise. In order to address this gap, the purpose of this study is to investigate the ways in which leadership and work discipline influence the performance of employees inside the organization. The research will take a qualitative approach to investigate the perspectives of both employees and managers, with the goal of offering a more nuanced understanding of the factors that influence performance results.

One of the most major obstacles that Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise has is maximizing staff performance. These challenges are largely caused by issues that are associated with leadership and work discipline. The company has seen that there are variations in the leadership styles of different managerial levels, which has an effect on the motivation of employees and their degree of satisfaction with their jobs. Furthermore, changes in productivity and adherence to organizational norms are caused by employees' variable degrees of work discipline, which contribute to the instability of the company. These issues not only have an impact on the effectiveness of operations, but they also create obstacles that prevent the company from attaining continuous development and from being competitive in the market. Understanding the particular dynamics of how leadership and work discipline impact employee outcomes within Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise is essential for designing focused tactics that can build a more unified and productive work environment.
This understanding is essential for generating solutions that can be implemented.

In the context of Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, the purpose of this study is to investigate the complex relationships that exist between different leadership styles, work discipline, and employee performance. A qualitative analysis is going to be carried out as part of this research project in order to discover the underlying elements that either contribute to or detract from the effectiveness and engagement of workplace employees. The purpose of the research is to give actionable insights that may aid the company in refining its leadership practices and enhancing work discipline frameworks. These insights will be provided through in-depth interviews and analysis. The findings will, in the end, contribute to the enhancement of organizational effectiveness and will assist Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise in attaining its strategic goals in the context of dynamic market conditions.
LITERATURE REVIEW
Leadership and Employee Performance

The influence that different leadership styles have on employee performance in a variety of organizational settings has been the subject of a significant amount of research. Transformational leadership, which is defined by visionary thinking, motivation via inspiration, intellectual stimulation, and customized consideration, has consistently shown good benefits on employee results (Figueroa, 2019; Flabbi, 2019). Leaders who demonstrate transformational abilities are skilled at cultivating a supportive work environment in which people feel empowered and inspired to fulfill the goals of the business (Eisenschmidt, 2021; Eliyana, 2019). Transactional leadership, on the other hand, places an emphasis on preserving order and compliance. This style of leadership places an emphasis on incentives and punishments that are reliant on performance (Jensen, 2019). It is possible that transactional leadership did not nurture the same levels of intrinsic drive and long-term commitment as transformational leadership. This is despite the fact that transactional leadership was effective in specific settings (Alrowwad, 2020).

Situational leadership theories place an emphasis on the necessity of adapting leadership styles to accommodate the myriad of conditions that might emerge inside an organization, as well as the requirements of the individuals that work there (Zhang, 2019). Therefore, as a result of this flexibility, leaders are able to successfully manage a wide variety of teams and challenges, which eventually leads to higher overall performance outcomes (Ogbonnaya, 2019). In the context of Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, it is essential to have an awareness of how different leadership styles impact employee engagement and performance. This information is necessary in order to establish strategies that are in line with the objectives of the company and to cultivate a work environment that is both supportive and productive.

Work Discipline and Employee Performance

The performance of employees is directly influenced by the level of work discipline that is implemented, which plays a significant part in maintaining consistency and adherence to corporate norms. People who demonstrate high levels of work discipline are more likely to regularly satisfy the requirements of their jobs and make a good contribution to the overarching goals of their organizations (Anggraini & Elida, 2021). Organizational behavior theories place an emphasis on the function of discipline as a foundational component of efficient management practices, which in turn contributes to high levels of overall operational efficiency (Aboramadan, 2021; Zhang, 2019). Employees are encouraged to maintain high levels of performance. This is accomplished by the effective enforcement of work discipline, which includes the implementation of clear regulations, constant monitoring, and the equitable application of sanctions (Kim, 2023).

Furthermore, the notion of self-discipline among employees, which is being driven by intrinsic motives and personal accountability, is a complementary concept to the efforts that organizations are making to promote work discipline (Hidayati et al., 2019; Roetzel, 2019). An environment in which workers take ownership of their tasks and strive for continuous improvement may be created by companies such as Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise. This can be accomplished by cultivating a culture that appreciates and supports self-discipline. In order to identify obstacles to performance and to put into action methods that foster a culture of responsibility and accomplishment, it is vital to have a solid understanding of the dynamics of work discipline within the context of the company (Newman, 2021).

METHODS

In order to investigate the impact that leadership and work discipline have on the results of employees at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, this study investigates the topic using a qualitative research methodology. For the purpose of gaining a more in-depth understanding of intricate organizational phenomena, qualitative research methodologies are used because of their capacity to capture nuanced viewpoints and deliver deeper insights. Within the unique setting of Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, a qualitative study approach makes it possible to conduct an in-depth investigation of the ways in which leadership styles and work discipline practices impact employee performance (Creswell, 2023). The purpose of conducting semi-structured interviews and focus groups with employees and managers from various departments is to collect a wide range of perspectives and experiences from a variety of individuals. Through the utilization of open-ended questions, it will be possible to conduct a comprehensive investigation of the views, attitudes, and actions of the participants in relation to leadership and work discipline.

Information will be gathered via the use of semi-structured interviews with roughly fifteen employees and five supervisors who have been chosen through the process of purposive sampling. This type of sampling guarantees that there is representation from a wide range of levels and departments within the business, which results in a full grasp of the various points of view. Furthermore, in order to further investigate the themes and patterns that were discovered during the interview phase, staff members will be encouraged to communicate with one another and engage in conversation through the organization of focus group discussions (Marshall et al., 2022). All of the interviews and focus groups will be audio recorded with the participants' permission, and then the recordings will be transcribed word for word in order to correctly capture comprehensive comments.

In an effort to carry out a thorough examination of the qualitative data gathered from interviews and focus groups, the approach of thematic analysis will be utilized. This particular methodology entails the identification, assessment, and interpretation of patterns (known as themes) within the data that pertain to leadership styles, practices of work discipline, and their impact on the outcomes of employees. Initially, scholars will partake in numerous readings of the transcripts to extensively acquaint themselves with the data. This initial stage is of paramount importance as it is vital for acquiring a profound understanding of the context and subtleties inherent in the responses provided by the participants. Subsequent to this, the researchers will create codes to classify substantial portions of the data. These codes will prove to be beneficial in structuring the data into coherent segments, accentuating key aspects and commonalities. The data that has been coded will then be assembled into themes on the basis of similarities and distinctions, thereby enabling the scholars to pinpoint overarching patterns and insights that are pertinent to the research inquiries.

As the themes start to emerge, they will be subjected to a meticulous scrutiny in order to formulate cohesive narratives that tackle the objectives of the study and offer perspectives into the connections between leadership, work discipline, and the performance of employees at PT Sukses Mulya Magelang. This particular process entails the examination of the interrelations between themes, grasping their implications, and situating them within the wider organizational framework. The primary aim is to construct a comprehensive and nuanced comprehension of how the styles of leadership and disciplinary procedures impact the outcomes of employees. By harnessing these qualitative research methods, the investigation endeavors to unveil insightful findings that contribute to a deeper insight into the operational dynamics at PT Sukses Mulya Magelang. The discoveries that are made will be pivotal in furnishing practical suggestions for enhancing the effectiveness of leadership, establishing robust structures for work discipline, and ultimately ameliorating the performance of employees and the outcomes of the organization. These revelations will serve as a compass for PT Sukses Mulya Magelang in devising targeted interventions and tactics to cultivate a more efficient and supportive work milieu.

RESULTS
Leadership

After conducting an examination of qualitative data, Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise was able to identify many important themes that are associated with leadership. The value of leadership styles in molding the participants' work experiences and performance results was repeatedly emphasized by the participants. It was found that transformational leadership had a particularly significant impact, as employees remarked on the motivating influence of leaders who inspired and enabled them to accomplish beyond their typical expectations. Specific characteristics, such as the ability to define a vision, communicate effectively, and provide supportive mentorship, have been highlighted as being essential in the process of cultivating a healthy work environment and improving the cohesiveness of a team. On the other hand, transactional leadership was viewed as less effective in terms of cultivating intrinsic motivation and long-term commitment among employees, despite the fact that it ensured task completion via the use of incentives and punishments. The findings highlight the significant impact that leadership plays in shaping employee engagement and organizational culture. They also show that there are potential for Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise to improve leadership development activities so that they are in line with the concepts of transformational leadership.
Work Discipline

The study found that employees have diverse perspectives and experiences about the adherence to organizational norms and standards. Concerning work discipline, the investigation revealed that these differences exist. While there were some employees who shown a high level of self-discipline and a dedication to reaching the objectives of their jobs, there were also individuals who reported having difficulty sustaining regular work habits. Workplace discipline was influenced by a number of factors, including the provision of supportive mechanisms for responsibility, the transmission of expectations in a clear and consistent manner, and the fairness with which regulations were enforced. Employees have stressed the significance of managerial oversight and feedback in the process of fostering work discipline, which suggests that effective monitoring and guidance play critical roles in the process of molding employee habits. The findings indicate that there are chances for Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise to develop its work discipline frameworks. These opportunities include improving communication tactics, establishing consistent enforcement techniques, and offering training and assistance to employees in order to assist them in internalizing corporate principles.

Integration of Leadership and Work Discipline

When it came to comprehending the results of employee performance at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, one of the most important themes that emerged was the combination of leadership and work discipline. A synergistic atmosphere was formed in which employees felt driven, encouraged, and accountable. This environment was produced by effective leaders who displayed both transformational leadership skills and a commitment to implementing work discipline. It was shown that leadership behaviors that stressed clear expectations, fairness, and empowerment were able to increase the intrinsic motivation of employees as well as their desire to respect corporate norms. At the other end of the spectrum, uncertainty, irritation, and decreased employee engagement were frequently the results of leadership and discipline procedures that were inconsistent or lacking. In order to cultivate a culture of high performance and organizational commitment at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise, the findings highlight how important it is to match leadership methods with disciplinary frameworks that are consistent and supportive.

DISCUSSION

The results of this study highlight the crucial importance of leadership styles and work discipline in influencing employee performance and organizational outcomes at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise. The focus on transformative leadership underscores its substantial and favorable influence on employee motivation and engagement. Leaders who motivate and enable their teams through visionary guidance and helpful mentorship establish a favorable work environment where people are encouraged to make valuable contributions. This is consistent with previous research that highlights the significance of transformational leadership in improving organizational culture.

and promoting performance (Bass, 1985; Avolio et al., 2009). The comparison with transactional leadership further demonstrates that whereas transactional approaches guarantee job fulfillment through explicit expectations and rewards, they may not maintain long-term employee dedication or promote new thinking and initiative among employees (Judge & Piccolo, 2004). Hence, Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise stands to gain advantages by allocating resources towards leadership development initiatives that cultivate transformational leadership attributes, consequently nurturing a workforce that is more actively involved and efficient.

The conversation also emphasized the crucial significance of work discipline in upholding operational efficiency and staff performance. The employees' compliance with organizational regulations and norms, which was impacted by effective communication, uniform enforcement, and supportive managerial supervision, played a vital role in attaining the desired results. The results are consistent with organizational behavior theories that highlight the importance of discipline in fostering consistent work habits and attaining organizational objectives (Landy & Conte, 2016; Robbins & Judge, 2018). Efficient work discipline not only guarantees the accomplishment of tasks but also fosters a culture of responsibility and professionalism inside the organization. Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise should enhance its disciplinary frameworks by adopting equitable and transparent regulations, offering consistent feedback and assistance to employees, and cultivating a culture that prioritizes self-discipline and accountability.

The integration of different leadership styles and work discipline has emerged as a central topic in the process of improving the performance of the company. Leaders that are able to successfully combine transformational leadership traits with rigorous disciplinary methods are able to create a synergistic atmosphere in which people feel driven, encouraged, and responsible for their actions. According to Bass and Avolio (1994), this integration helps to create a unified corporate culture that is oriented on shared objectives and values, which in turn increases employee engagement and commitment from the workforce. The opposite is also true: inconsistencies or gaps in leadership and disciplinary methods may result in confusion, disengagement, and decreased productivity among staff. Consequently, in order to cultivate a culture that values high performance and organizational excellence, Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise need to place a primary emphasis on aligning the actions of its leaders with disciplinary frameworks that are consistent and supportive.

In conclusion, this research offers Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise ideas that may be put into action to improve the company's leadership practices and reinforce the frameworks that govern work discipline. Through the use of transformational leadership traits, the enhancement of communication tactics, and the reinforcement of disciplinary procedures, the company is able to cultivate a work atmosphere that is more supportive and productive. Our understanding of effective management practices in dynamic business environments could be further improved through future research that investigates the longitudinal effects of leadership and discipline interventions on organizational outcomes. This would contribute to ongoing improvements in the effectiveness of organizations.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS
Ultimately, this research has shed light on the pivotal significance of leadership styles and work discipline in influencing employee performance and organizational results at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise. The results emphasize the significance of transformative leadership in stimulating employee enthusiasm and engagement, while efficient work discipline aids in sustaining operational efficiency and accountability. By integrating these factors, a unified company culture is created, which empowers people to make significant contributions. In the future, Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise may use these insights to improve leadership development programs, enhance disciplinary frameworks, and foster a supportive work environment that promotes consistent performance and organizational success. Future study should investigate the long-term effects, conduct comparative assessments in other settings, and use technology improvements to improve management practices and flexibility in changing business situations.

FURTHER STUDY
Future study might conduct longitudinal studies to evaluate the long-lasting effects of leadership development and disciplinary interventions at Sukses Mulya Magelang Enterprise. This research would provide valuable insights into the persistent enhancements in employee performance and organizational culture over time. Comparative studies may be conducted to assess the efficacy of different leadership styles and disciplinary tactics used within the firm, with the aim of finding the most effective ways to improve employee outcomes. Furthermore, doing research that specifically examines the viewpoints of employees might enhance our comprehension of how leadership and disciplinary measures impact work satisfaction and motivation. Cross-cultural study may analyze the variations in these behaviors across different organizational settings, while studies on technology integration can investigate how digital technologies enhance managerial performance. Additionally, investigating the influence of external variables like as economic volatility and regulatory modifications on leadership and discipline might provide tactics for adjusting organizational procedures to ever-changing contexts.
